Last year was the hardest year of my life. It was literally the most difficult year physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually. Overcoming open heart surgery was the hardest experience I have ever faced. As physically challenging as it was, the mental and emotional healing were far greater tests! I am still working through all of it but thankful to be on this side and picking up momentum; at the same time, 2017 was also the BEST YEAR of my life.

The greatest benefit of facing the greatest challenges of life is what it can do to us in the process. We either get bitter or better. We find fault and submit as a victim or tap into strength that we never knew existed. We stay down and wallow or get up and face the overwhelming.

Those decisions are why 2017 was by far the BEST year of my life. I see more clearly how and why God is doing what He is doing. My relationships with the Father, my precious wife, kids and friends are so much richer and meaningful. My focus and clarity are in HD everyday life.

The tangible results are an amazing corporate focus that challenges and encourages thousands weekly (go see www.kennworks.com and check out WOW Moments). It is the new podcast that inspires and shares that new-found focus. It's produced from the multiple times I've had the chance to speak on Sundays all over the country (Podcast: God In Reality). This clarity has also launched the wonderful new project debuting in 2018, Duct Tape Comedy. Initially the event Duct Tape Date Nite and the companion Duct Tape DIY Groups will be unveiled the first of the year.

Probably the greatest revelation this past year has been the solidification of my life purpose... I was created to help people! Encouraging, challenging and coming along side groups, companies, churches, organizations, and individuals is what make my heart (albeit NEW) beat.

Check it out and let me know if and how I can help you in the New Year. Big and small I LOVE it all!!! I hope your 2018 is the best ever... without the heart problems!!! LOL, Kenn (2N)

DUCT TAPE

Date Nite

When was the last time you, as a couple, had a night out for the sole purpose of laughing together?

Romantic Comedies are hit or miss and so predictable. Comedy clubs are usually too raunchy and vulgar thus becoming more and more extinct. Duct Tape Date Nite to the rescue! I've assembled a couple other comics and our only purpose is to give you a movie-length night of laughter with one another! Check a couple clips out online and see when we will be near you or even touch base and find out what it takes to host this amazing night!

I am asked to teach several times each year all across the country. Although I have taught weekly, city-wide bible studies in 6 major cities and at hundreds (if not thousands) of churches nationwide there is no place to hear these talks...

Until NOW...

Breaking out the archives and posting the newest talks, now there is God In Reality with Kenn Kington. Click the podcast icon on your smart phone and type in "God..." it is usually in the first couple of options. If not, type in "God in Reality" and you will see this icon. New episodes every other week and series from the past posted on a quarterly basis.

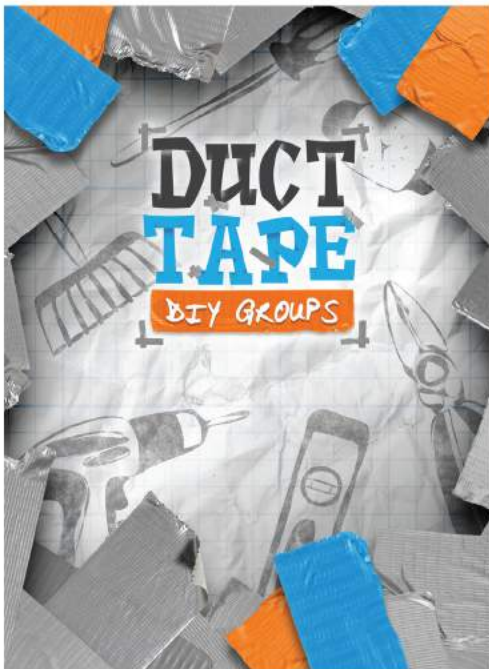

Why be bored on long trips, sitting in traffic, or drudging through another workout? Be encouraged and challenged today.

As requests have steadily increased to do corporate events, the need to have a weekly post of some kind has grown as well.

Each week, I post a New WOW Moment! WOW Moments are 2-3-minute video clips that inspire, inform, and transform the way successful leaders approach today's challenges. Companies and individuals are using these clips in a variety of ways.

Click on www.KennWorks.com today and see for yourself how amazingly mind altering 3 minutes can be!

Once you have experienced the Duct Tape Date Nite, you are probably going to want more. That is why the Duct Tape DIY Groups are available starting in February of 2018.

This easy to use leader's guide and user's books lead any size couples' groups through some simple and applicable tools that instantly make any marriage better!

Check out www.DuctTapeDateNite.com and click on the DIY Group icon.
